

Jill Stuart

A style heiress—her parents owned the classic 60s and 70s sportswear brand Mister Pants—Stuart began as an accessories designer, selling her first collection to Bloomingdale's while still enrolled in Manhattan's Dalton School. Today Stuart's ready-to-wear collection appears in more than 100 freestanding boutiques and in most major department stores. What's she most proud of? Her three girls, Morgan, Chloe, and Sophie.

Jill Stuart white brocade baby-doll dress

Vosges hatbox

ON HER LIST:

- Diptyque candle in fig
- Rainbow rose bouquet from Miho Kosuda flowers
- Jill Stuart white brocade baby-doll dress
- Vosges hatbox of chocolates
- Darphin HydroRelax Eau de Beauté Aromatique

Lucy Sykes Rellie

Former fashion editor at Harper's Bazaar, Town & Country, Vogue, and Allure, plus fashion director of Marie Claire, Sykes Rellie launched her eponymous children's clothing collection in 2005 after the birth of her son, Heathcliff. Her line is sold at more than 60 stores internationally; her new venture with Best & Co. is available exclusively at Bergdorf

Goodman; and her Stride Rite collection is available nationwide. She and her husband, Euan, live with their son in the West Village.

Red cotton shirtdress from Ports 1961

Lucis clutch by Kara Ross

ON HER LIST:

- Red cotton shirtdress from Ports 1961
- Lucis clutch by Kara Ross
- Organic skincare and makeup from Steve Marino ("I have Marino do my makeup when I go out for dinner with my husband.")
- Breakfast in bed with her whole family, catered by Cafe Cluny
- A day of beauty at Blow on 14th Street

Maternal Instincts

Stumped about what to buy for Mother's Day? The coolest mommies in the city drop some hints.
by Samantha Marcus Yanks

Cynthia Srednicki

Born and raised in Tennessee, Srednicki began her NYC career with a gig at Robert Marc eyewear. After a job with power publicist Nadine Johnson and a stint as marketing director for Intermix, Srednicki started her own consulting firm, Vision PR. She now heads the public relations and events division at Escada—an opportunity she couldn't resist. Another irresistible force in Srednicki's life: her son, Garrett.

Mandarin Oriental Hotel

ON HER LIST:

- A blissful spa day at the Mandarin Oriental Hotel
- The new iPhone
- Red nylon tote by Escada Sport
- The new Harley-Davidson V Rod ("My 2003 needs to be replaced.")
- A romantic weekend with her husband, topped off with snuggling with their son

Escada Sport tote

Maloles Miracosta-Antignac

Erno Laszlo line

The Spanish-born designer got her start as a fashion stylist with magazines like Vogue, but it was Miracosta-Antignac's passion for footwear that led her to an even more successful career as a shoe designer. Her vision of shoe as sculpture and her philosophy that the foot is an especially sensual part of the body translate into a line that's synonymous with feel-good feminine fun. The first Maloles collection debuted in 2004, and Miracosta-Antignac recently released a handbag line as well as a children's collection called Petite Maloles. Fitting, since Miracosta-Antignac is the proud mother of a daughter, Anna.

Maloles sandal

ON HER LIST:

- Vintage jewelry from Lydia Courteille ("My favorite shop in Paris.")
- A long weekend in Turks and Caicos at Amanresort's Amanyara
- A special drawing or paper butterfly from her daughter
- Any product from the fabulous new TransPHuse line by Erno Laszlo
- Lisa open-toe flat sandal by Maloles