

ads need a little TLC too, so how about getting him a little token of your affection? From an insightful page turner, to bacon-infused delights (a treat you'll both enjoy), to a face wash he'll actually use, these goodies will surely remind him just how lucky you feel to have him around (and vice versa, of course).

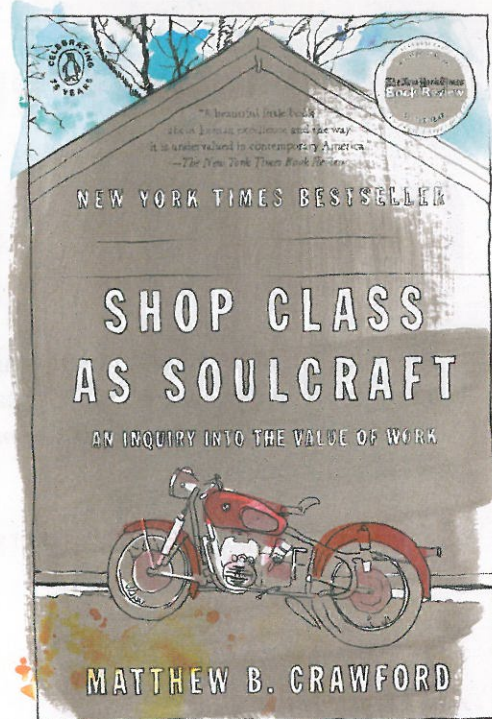

find it
Cross-Terrain All-In-One
Refueling Wash, $15.50
Kiehl's
Dallas, 214/559-0700
kiehls.com

about face!

The idea of "bath products" seems to well ... freak out most of the guys we know. But somehow Kiehl's has managed to pack in a slew of skin-soothing (and improving) stuff like coconut, aloe vera and vitamin E, in a completely non-threatening package with its Cross-Terrain All-In-One Refueling Wash.

And thanks to its dual purpose—it's formulated for the hair and body—the masculine cleanser imparts a practicality that further enhances the chances he'll actually use it.

Photo Courtesy of Kiehl's; and vosgeschocolate.com; illustration by Mary Dunn

soul man

Chances are your beloved has a workplace alter-ego fantasy (à la Clark Kent and Superman)—likely dreaming of ditching the tie at 6pm for something more hands-on. In some cases, it's his little woodworking shop tucked into a corner of the garage that he likes to duck into. So it's no surprise that dads who like getting their hands dirty are currently obsessed with Matthew B. Crawford's book, Shop Class as Soulcraft, about the immense pleasure derived from working with your hands in this age of the knowledge worker. Present a copy to your love on Father's Day and don't be surprised if he's inspired to put down his iPad and take on a home improvement project.

find it
Shop Class as Soulcraft, $15
Barnes & Noble
Various locations
matthewbcrawford.com

chocolates ... for him

Infused with atypical ingredients like bacon, (yes, you read that right), artisanal chocolates are getting a decidedly masculine makeover. Our significant others are especially obsessed with Vosges' bacon bar as well as the sweet-and-salty bacon caramel toffee. Full confession: We've been known to dig in to their stash when nobody's looking.

find it
Mo's Dark Bacon Bar,
$7.50
Whole Foods
Various locations
vosgeschocolate.com